A Good Week for Princeton Police: Several Robbery Suspects Arrested

It was a good week for police—and a corresponding bad one for criminals. While there was no letup in larcenies and break-ins in Princeton, there were a number of arrests.

A former Princeton resident was arrested and charged with burglary and theft after he was found by police hiding in an upstairs study closet of a Terhune Road home.

James R. Tkacs, 26, who gave police a S. Broad Street, Trenton address, had assorted jewelry in his possession at the time of his apprehension, police said. He was later released in $3,500 bail.

Chief Frederick Porter attributed his arrest to an alert resident and to off-duty Ptl. Mark Emann who was attending a party in the vicinity. Around 10:30 Friday evening Ptl. Emann and an area resident heard the sound of breaking glass.

Ptl. Emann and some friends at the party investigated and discovered a side window in a Terhune Road home had been broken. They surrounded the home until the arrival of the regular Township patrol of Sgt David Potts, Ptl. David Cromwell and Ptl. John Clausen.

A New York City couple, Darren R. Wilson, 19, and his 18-year-old wife, Betty Joe, have been arrested by Township police and charged with burglary and possession of stolen property. Both were later taken to the Mercer County Detention Center in Trenton.

They were arrested by Ptl. Cromwell who was responding Sunday to a 4:25 p.m. burglar alarm at All Saints Chapel on All Saints Road. He found the two suspects inside the church near the main chapel.

A door to a box where the silver chalices were kept had been torn off, triggering an alarm, police said.

Outside was a blue Vega with Virginia plates. A crime check revealed that it had been stolen in Alexandria, Va. A further check revealed that Mrs. Wilson was wanted by Alexandria police for failing to appear in a fraud charge involving the use of stolen credit cards.

Two dogs in the car — a German Shepherd and a Doberman Pinscher — were taken to the Princeton Animal Rescue League.

Alertness of area residents also led to the arrest of two Trenton men who were charged with stripping a car in Princeton Community Village.

The two suspects, Larry Berry, 21, and Kevin Flowler, 21, were apprehended by Officer John F. Petrone Jr. on Route 206 after they had allegedly removed four tires from a car parked in an area between Juniper Row and Mulberry Row.

They had in their possession the tires and other items taken from a 1972 Ford that had been stolen July 3 from the Cap and Gown Club on Prospect Avenue. Both suspects were charged with theft and later released in their own recognizance, pending their appearance in Township court.

Officer Petrone had responded to a call at 1:21 a.m. Friday from a resident who reported two men were stripping a car. .

Both Municipalities Wrestling with Major Development Plans: In Township Builders Seek Approval for Two Housing Projects

Princeton University received rave reviews this week from the Environmental Design Review Committee for a plan to cluster about 160 housing units on small lots in the middle of its 360-acre parcel of land in the northwest corner of Princeton Township.

"We will come out strongly in favor of this cluster concept," said Ulrich Frank, committee chairman. "This is great," added James C. Sayen.

Unfortunately for the University, the cluster plan presented to the committee is still just a vision. Unless the Township drafts a new zoning ordinance that will allow more concentrated groupings of units than is now permitted, or unless the University can obtain a zoning variance to allow the cluster plan, the plan will remain just a vision.

Apparently thinking that neither of the above two possibilities are sure bets, the University also presented development plans based on the Township's old zoning ordinance and on the new one, just enacted. Those plans did not receive rave reviews. In fact, they got panned.

The plan presented under terms of the old ordinance, which the University believes ought to apply in its case, calls for 164 units, each occupying lots roughly one acre in size. Anthony Walmsley, a landscape architect hired by the University, called the scheme a "cluster" in his presentation, as does the Township in its zoning ordinance.

James C. Sayen of the Environmental Design Review Committee interrupted Mr. Walmsley in the middle of his talk. "Why are we going through this charade?" asked Mr. Sayen. "You say this is a cluster but you spell it with a small 'c.' I don't see any contiguous open space. What's there is useless to anyone. You have a lot of friends for a cluster concept but to push this through as a cluster, it's a travesty. Call it a development."

Attorney James J. Britt, representing the University, pointed out to Mr. Sayen that "We are aware of the benefits of doing a more condensed cluster. We hope the Township Committee will pass a meaningful cluster ordinance."

Depending on the outcome of the cluster ordinance, and depending on whether the University finally is subject to the new one or the old one, the proposal for the parcel, known as Pretty Brook and located between Province Line, Cherry Valley, and Drakes Corner roads, could end up being allowed anywhere from 88 to 164 units. In any case, the University's proposal, as well as its visionary plan, will be presented next Monday before the Planning Board. The meeting is at the staff center of the Valley Road School Building, beginning at 8, and will be continued to Tuesday, Thursday, July 17, and even the next Monday, July 21, if necessary.

If the Planning Board seems anxious to pass judgment in the Pretty Brook application, it is. The board is required to rule on any application within 95 days of the time it was ruled to be complete. If it does not, then the application is

Lengthy Report Focuses on Plans for Future of Borough's CBD

It will never be a bestseller and it will never be optioned to Hollywood, but Borough Hall has a nice thick volume that will probably end up on the summer reading lists of municipal officials, Nassau Street and Palmer Square merchants and businessmen, and concerned residents in the area of the central business district.

It's entitled "Princeton: Urban Design Study," and it has been prepared by Venturi, Rauch and Scott Brown, the Philadelphia planning firm the Borough hired when its own plan for parking garages and other development in the CBD fell victim to vociferous opposition.

Plans for the expansion of Palmer Square, the creation of several scaled-down parking garages with accompanying fringe parking near Jadwin Gymnasium, the construction of low and middle income apartment units by Princeton Community Housing in the area that is now a parking lot between Spring and Witherspoon streets, and the expansion of the Public Library are all part of the plot development.

The 121-page study, including illustrations, adds one more nail to the coffin of the Princeton Playhouse structure, stating that the movie house and the expanded Palmer Square cannot both be implemented unless the Playhouse be proved "financially feasible." And the report even has a touch of intrigue: "Princeton University's decision to sell rather than develop Palmer Square has left uncertainty at the heart of the development plan."

In places the report reads a little like a paperback novel. "Paving," the architects confide in a section detailing various design recommendations, "is like lipstick. A new application will make the physiognomy appear much brighter, but if it itself is too bright, the town will look vulgar." The report notes that "urban street furniture should be tough and sturdy to resist the depredations of weather, time, and urbanites. But it can and should be both beefy and urbane, even witty."

Most important to Borough officials and to representatives of Princeton Community Housing and the Library is that this volume is bound to spawn sequels. "We're going to push to get a CBD addendum to the master plan, said Mayor Robert Cawley at his weekly press conference, as he distributed copies of the report with a touch of author's pride – "for those of you who thought it would never happen," he said. "Now we have a document that we can formally present to the Planning Board."

The Borough hopes to be able to make a presentation as soon as September.

While much of the report consists of designs and recommendations that were a product of the CBD steering committee's many months of deliberations, the report also includes some proposals for action that are the consultant's thinking, though apparently shared by many of the participants involved. Venturi, Rauch, and Scott Brown make the following case for immediate action:

Police Nab Suspects

When a passenger got off a Suburban bus early Tuesday morning at Palmer Square, he snatched a travel bag belonging to a Princeton resident. Inside were $80, a $300 check and a 35 mm camera.

A description of the suspect was given to Ptl. David Alston, who responded to the 12:37 call. A short time later, the officer saw the suspect on Chambers Street near Paul Robeson Drive.

He arrested Robert A. Nixon, 23, of Somerset and charged him with theft. In his possession, police said, were the eighty dollars, check and camera. The items were returned to their rightful owner.

The incident left Chief Michael Carnevale shaking his head. Further proof, he said, unless it's nailed down, it is fair game for a thief. Morality has eroded to the point, he said, where people don't know — or no longer care — what is theirs and what isn't.

Future of CBD

• Library Plaza and Spring Street parking structure. Pointing out that the University's decision to sell Palmer Square "has necessitated a hiatus in activity," the report argues that "development in certain parts of the CBD need not wait upon expansion of Palmer Square. In particular, the Library Plaza complex owes relatively little to it and can be considerably influenced by the Borough ... This development would be dependent on the concurrent development of the Spring Street south parking structure, or a part of it."

The planners argue that "initiating the Library Plaza and the parking structure ... would free the land for PCH, satisfy existing merchants' immediate parking problems, and lead to small scale but important commercial and residential rehabilitation in the eastern portion of the CBD near the parking structure."

• Princeton Community Housing. "In order to follow this preemptive strategy," the report continues, "The Borough would have to induce PCH to now find the funding and implement the project or retire."

PCH President Harriet Bryan said her organization needs little inducement, just some funds. "We have an application filed now with HUD," she said, "and we should know by the end of July whether or not we will have funding." Although "there's a lot of competition for not too much money," Mrs. Bryan pointed out that if and when funding from HUD is approved, then PCH would have to break ground within 18 months' time. "We would hope that the Borough would have a parking garage done in that time."

The PCH plans currently call for about 90 one-bedroom apartments for the elderly and low-income. The structure would probably be five stories high and would be situated on the north side of Spring Street, set back toward the Skillman furniture store.

• The Library. "Encourage the Library to proceed with its plans," argues the Venturi report. "Request a program and schedule for action from them." Mrs. Bryan says that PCH officials have been in touch with Library representatives. "They do not have funding for their expansion yet," she says, "but it looks hopeful."

One Eye on Palmer Square. Meanwhile, of course, the Borough will be keeping a watchful eye on Palmer Square developments. The Venturi and Rauch plan lists one set of recommendations for action if the Square's ownership is resolved soon: "Borough officials should give their full attention to this project when it recommences ..., deferring to the extent possible other planning issues until Palmer Square North is well underway."

The report recommends that the Palmer Square expansion schedule be the determining factor in deciding when the Chambers Street parking garage is begun. "The Borough should give thought to an interim parking and metering policy that will best use the available facilities until the Palmer Square project is constructed. This policy should include use of the Maclean Street lot and monitoring of its occupancy to determine its role in the future parking plan.

"The new Palmer Square developer should be involved early in the fringe parking system and the University's continued assistance should be ensured. Perhaps a portion of the system should be installed before the Chambers Street south structure is completed," the report continues.

"Part of the planning for the second new parking structure should include a rerun of traffic assignments on the two intersections previously identified as problem intersections (Chambers-Robeson and Nassau-Washington) to ensure that they will not be overstressed."

What if the University takes forever to find a suitable buyer for the Square? What if the buyer doesn't like the proposal for the Square's expansion? The Urban Design Study points out that, since "there is no way of knowing whether a new developer will follow the plans of Palmer Square Incorporated, closely or at all, the Borough must allow for a considerable reformulation of the development plan." In other words, someone may have to do a rewrite.

Copies of the report, which represents the product of professional planning that cost the Borough on the order of $50,000, are on file at the Public Library and Borough Hall. Citizens who would like to obtain a copy of their own, for reading at the beach or in the hammock, should inquire at Borough Hall. Officials are considering a nominal charge.

Committee Creates Two Residential Zones In Undeveloped Areas of Northern Township

As had been expected, Township Committee last Wednesday night created two new residential zones in the undeveloped lands all along the northern third of the Township.

The amendment to the Township Code, voted unanimously, was the first ordinance adopted to begin implementing the provisions of the new Master Plan. Committee continued until Wednesday, July 16, a companion ordinance creating two new Office-Research zones in the northwest corner of the Township which would have the new residential zoning as an underlying option.

The two new residential zones, designated R-A and R-B, have minimum lot requirements of 4 and 3 acres, respectively. Up to now, the lowest residential density in the Township has been two acres.

The three principal developers with landholdings in the affected area, Princeton University, Gibbs and Hill, and Nassau Builders, each of whom has a subdivision application pending before EDRC or the Planning Board, were the principal speakers for the evening. Each brought a retinue of lawyers and experts to contest the Planning Board's recommendation that the diabase ridge area was ecologically fragile and required a lower density.

Experts vs. Experts. Representatives of a Waltham, Mass. firm had prepared elaborate maps colorfully depicting soils, slopes, vegetation and streams, with overlays showing how the University's 360 acres could be developed for 160 units under the present and proposed zoning. They made a strong case for "super-clustering"--meaning units with shared walls--under the present two-acre zoning as the most ecologically and economically viable way to develop the land.

Thomas Jamieson, speaking as attorney for the trustees of Princeton University, told Committee, "The ordinance you're thinking about will not do what you think it will do and it might do worse." The present ordinance, he said, gives no bonus for clustering, which "won't work from an economic point of view on three to four acres." He also asked Committee to amend the ordinance to exempt applications already pending--a device known as "grandfathering."

Attorney Gordon Strauss, representing Gibbs and Hill and its Princeton Ridge development on 230 acres on the north slope of the ridge, also asked for a grandfather clause. He introduced another set of experts tn support his thesis that properties on the north side of the ridge are very developable, even in one-half acre lots.

David O'Brien, a civil engineer employed by Gibbs and Hill, said he had been studying the Princeton Ridge property for five years. "It is not fragile, and four acres is not justified," he asserted. He described the difference between the north slope and the south slope as resulting from the upthrust in the diabse that created the ridge, leaving the north with fairly uniform soil depth and the south in boulders and erratic soil deposits.

Mrs. Duffy Hutter outlined the Planning Board's reasons for large lots as a way of keeping existing vegetation, controlling run-off, preserving stream corridors and keeping sewering–and thus blasting–to a minimum.

Petition Presented. Mrs. Alice Deering, of 1010 Stuart Road, secretary of the Stuart Hill Association, presented a petition with 160 signatures giving "strong support" to the lower density. She spoke of the new road now being built as being twice as difficult and costly as had been expected because of the huge boulders that required blasting and trucking.

To Dean Chace of Drakes Corner Road, a former Township Committeeman, the issue was simple. "Are you going to accept the viewpoint of the Planning Board, which has labored hours and hours over the Master Plan, and the advice of its impartial experts, or are you going to believe experts from Waltham, Mass., who are trying to develop land that is so beautiful and so fragile?"

Mayor Hall agreed with him. "The Planning Board has been at this a long, long time," she said. "We are not premature in passing this ordinance." She also told the audience that Committee plans to address the question of a cluster ordinance "fairly quickly."

Actually, Committee had spent a lengthy extra work session the night before hearing a presentation by Allen Porter, Planning Board attorney, on the various ways a cluster ordinance could be put together. The present cluster ordinance, he feels, is not a flexible tool in terms of design possibilities, mandating as it does the lot line concept and single family houses.

Variety Possible. He described the Planned Unit Residential Development which he thinks would be a flexible tool and would allow more open space, fewer roads and utilities at a lower cost and lesser disruption of the land. The units could be smaller but need not be, and there could be a variety of types of construction and ownership, such as townhouses and condominiums, single family or attached two-fasmily units.

Other Business. Last Wednesday Committee also passed the Ewing bike path ordinance, appropriating $43,000 from the capital budget for the construction of a bikepath along the east side of Ewing Street from Mt. Lucas to Bunn Drive. It also approved the spending of $34,000 for improvements to police communications.

The resignations of Willa Stackpole from the Board of Assessors and Susan Jackson from the Transportation Commission were accepted with regret. David Long of Snowden Lane was appointed to the School Board's USE Committee studying the closing of a school and J. B. Smith of 485 Princeton-Kingston Road as the Township's Representative to the Sewer Operating Committee.

TOPICS
Of The Town

OR Removed. Bryce Thompson's Nassau Builders which earlier had sought an 11-acre subdivision in the OR zone north of Herrontown and east of Mt. Lucas that was denied by the Planning Board and remanded by Township Committee on appeal, was represented last Wednesday by Philip Chapman of a Newark firm.

Nassau Builders' land was originally zoned OR with a Floor Area Ratio of 45.

While the application was still pending, Township Committee adopted ordinances regulating building on slopes in excess of certain percentages, revising downward the FAR and the allowable building height and permitting residential use as an option. Now Committee was proposing, as part of the Master Plan implementation, to rezone the area north of Herrontown and east of Mt. Lucas for residential use only, making it an R-B zone with a three acre lot minimum. This would force Mr. Thompson to seek a variance to sell part of his parcel for office-research development, as he proposes.

In speaking against the proposed ordinance, Mr. Thompson displayed pictures of commercial development that has already taken place not far from his land and maintained that there is no market for the $400,000 houses which he thinks would be the result of three acre zoning. His attorney argued for a delay in adopting the new zoning and modification of the ordinance to exempt the three principal landholders for whom, he said, the "financial stakes are very high."

Draft Registration to Begin Monday, July 21 At Post Office for All Boys Born in '60 and '61

If the Post Office suddenly becomes a popular hang out for teenage boys later this month, blame Uncle Sam or Brother Jimmy, not the boys.

President Carter's Selective Service registration begins Monday, July 21, and will last for a two-week period, during which time all boys born in the years 1960 and 1961 must report to the Post Office and fill out the proper forms.

If the implications of a registration system seem onerous to some, the process, at least, seems simple. The form requires only the registrant's name, permanent and current address, telephone number, social security number, and date of birth. It can be completed at the Post Office and returned to any clerk, who will ask to see some standard form of identification, such as a driver's license.

The one benefit of the Selective System as it formerly was instituted--the issuance of a draft card that proved to the world that a 19-year-old was really 19--will not be part of the current system. Today's young men will receive an acknowledgment letter in about three months, verifying the information that has been entered into the Selective Service computer, but no draft card to carry in their wallets.

To keep the lines short at the Post Office, the government has assigned different days to young men born in different months. To explain it all to the registrants, the White House provided the following questions and answers:

Q. When will registration begin?
A. This year's registration program will take place during the two-week period begining on Monday, July 21, and concluding on Saturday, August 2.
Q. Who must register in 1980?
A. All men born in the years 1960 and 1961 must register.

Q. Are there special times during the two-week period when individuals must register?
A. Yes. Men born in 1960 should register during the first week. Those born in 1961 should register during the second week. In addition, specific days of each week have been assigned for registering individuals depending upon the month in which they were born, in order to avoid long lines at post offices. Men born in January, February, or March should register on Monday. Men with birthdays in April, May, or June should register on Tuesday. Those with July, August, or September birthdays should register on Wednesday. And men born during October, November, or December should register on Thursday. Friday (all day) and Saturday morning are make-up times for those who connot register on the day indicated by their birth dates.
Q. What if I am 18 years old now, but will turn 19 years old in the fall? Should I wait until my birthday to register?
A. You should register this summer along with everyone else who was born in 1960 and 1961. Your year of birth is the determining factor, not your age when registration takes place.

Q. When will other young men be registering?
A. Beginning in January, 1981, men born in 1962 will register. Thereafter, men will register when they turn 18 years of age.
Q. What are the penalties for not registering?
A. A non-registrant could face a fine of up to $10,000, imprisonment of up to five years, or both.

Q. Can an individual who is required to register send someone else to register for him?
A. No. Each individual must register in person.
Q. Can registration forms be picked up at the post office and mailed back later?
A. No. Registration must take place at the post office.

Q. What about men living abroad or traveling overseas?
A. They are required to register at the nearest U.S. Consulate or Embassy.
Q. Are any men born in 1960 or 1961 not required to register?
A. The only persons not required to register are members of the active armed forces, cadets or midshipmen at the service academies, and nonimmigrant aliens (for example, members of diplomatic or trade missions and those on student or visitor visas).

Q. Are military reservists or members of the National Guard required to register?
A. Yes. if they were born in 1960 or 1961 and are not on active duty.
Q. It is unlikely that disabled or handicapped individuals would be drafted into military service. Are they required to register?
A. Yes. An individual's physical condition has no bearing on the requirements to register. Those confined to institutions are required to register upon release from confinement.

Q. Must members of a religious order register? What about ministers?
A. Yes. All must register if they were born in 1960 or 1961.
Q. Undoubtedly, some individuals--because of illness or hardship--will be unable to register on their appointed day. What will happen to them?
A. Nothing, if they fulfill their responsibility to register as soon as they are able. Registration materials will be available at the post offices continuously.

Q. What provisions are being made for those who wish to register as conscientious objectors?
A. The determination of a registrant's classification is made by members of his local draft board. Because the local boards are not in an active status at this time, no classifications of any type are being issued to registrants. Therefore, those who consider themselves conscientious objectors are required to register. If they so wish, they may write "CO" on their registration forms. Such action will not invalidate the registrations, nor will it confer conscientious objector status on the individuals.

DEBATE CONTINUES

Between PSI and Merchants. The deadline for the signing of leases between merchants and Palmer Square Inc. has come and gone not once, but twice. Early this week leases still had not been signed, but some principals were sounding hopeful and at least two merchants were planning to meet with PSI President Carl Schafer.

"I'm optimistic something can be worked out," said one shopkeeper.

Mr. Schafer expressed his appreciation of the merchants' concerns, but offered no hope of making concessions in the critical areas of disagreement: the amount of rents and duration of the leases. PSI already had agreed to some of the merchants' other demands.

"We have to get a fair market rental value for those stores," Mr. Schafer said. "Anything less and it becomes a subsidy for the merchants. That's not the way the University (the principal owner of Palmer Square) is structured to operate."

The one-year leases, Mr. Schafer says, agreeing with the merchants, "are a hardship. No businessman in his right mind would enter into one-year leases on a continuing basis. But now they are simply essential at this time of transition. We have to stay flexible in terms of leases if we are to attract the best qualified buyer."

Critical Juncture. For the merchants, as well as for others interested in the long-term development of the central business district, the University's announced intention of selling Palmer Square has created a sense of uncertainty at a critical juncture in the planning of the CBD's future.

The 121-page report prepared by the professional planners hired to study the CBD and distributed to the press this week recommends that the Borough and the CBD Steering Committee prepare to revise the new CBD plan if Palmer Square is not expanded.

"There have been some very serious discussions with a small number of potential Palmer Square buyers," said Mr. Schafer. "But we have nothing definite to report. There will be no announcement of a sale until we are there. We have agreed that we are not going to say who is or who is not involved."

The Venturi and Rauch report, the University vice-president and treasurer continued, "is of great interest to potential buyers. It represents the product of a long, deliberative process that involved all sorts of people. Of course, there's no guarantee," he added, that any new Palmer Square management would go along with the expansion plans. And some, Mr. Schafer pointed out, "have their own plans."

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

If it's Einstein, $31,000. A physics manuscript that Albert Einstein donated to a Brooklyn library in 1934, when he was living in Princeton and serving on the permanent faculty of the Institute for Advanced Study, was sold at auction last month for $31,000.

The 10-page manuscript, entitled "The Compatibility of the Field Equation in the Unified Field Theory," was written in German on graph paper and corrected in Einstein's handwriting. It was signed twice by the late physicist.

The paper was probably written between December, 1929, and February, 1930. In 1934 Einstein was a guest speaker at the Brooklyn Jewish Center's American Library of Nazi-banned Books. He left the manuscript as a donation to the library, which locked it in a safe.

The executive director of the center discovered the manuscript when he was disposing of an old safe that was in the organization's basement. The name of the buyer was not disclosed.

The paper found in Brooklyn is a mere drop compared to the holdings of the Einstein estate. Those papers currently are housed at the Institute for Advanced Study. A disagreement between the Princeton University Press and the executors of the estate, Professor Otto Nathan of New York and Helen Dukas of Princeton, Einstein's former secretary, has led to the suspension of plans to publish the papers.

The matter has been submitted to the American Arbitration Association in New York, which is expected to issue a determination within a month, according to a University Press spokesman.

$500,000 GRANTED

For Sewer Design. The Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority has been granted $500,000 from the Federal Environmental Protection Administration to design sewer treatment plants for Pennington and Hopewell Borough.

The authority's executive director, Arthur K. Kling, said the grant is expected to cover 75 percent of the cost of engineering two 300,000 gallon-per-day plants on the outskirts of each municipality. The Pennington plant is planned for a site now owned by the Mobil Oil Corporation. The Hopewell site is on Aunt Molly Road, on land owned by the Archdiocese of Trenton.

A Princeton engineering firm, Ditmars and Carmichael, has been selected to design the plants.

The schedule calls for completion of design work by the middle of 1981, with construction beginning soon thereafter, provided that funding can be arranged. The authority hopes to have the plants operational by 1983.

LIGHT AGENDA SET

For Township Committee. Township Committee has a light agenda this Wednesday for its meeting at 8 in Township Hall.

The one item that may bring some discussion is an ordinance reducing the speed limit on Stuart Road to 30 mph on the portion between The Great Road East and 40 mph for the longer stretch between The Great Road East and Cherry Hill Road. One resident, Robert Solomon of Hardy Drive, thinks the speed limit should be 25 mph over the whole length and has gone to court to prove his point.

Committee is somewhat dismayed by this turn of events and feels it has followed the proper procedure in referring the residents' request for a lower speed limit first to its own Traffic Safety Commission and then to the state Department of Transportation. The recommendation from both was for the two speed zones of 30 and 40 mph respectively.

At issue is how a residential zone is defined in which a 25 mph limit is allowable under state law. The state permits 25 mph when the frontages are 300 feet apart, but the question

It's Taxpayers' Turn to Smile Now

The rebates are coming! The rebates are coming!

Last week it was the tax bill--not good news but not so bad. news for property owners in the Township, where the rate was 5.5 percent higher than last year, and definitely dreary news for those in the Borough, whose notices reflected a whopping 15.8 percent increase.

This week the tax man has good news for just about everyone. The state's annual homestead rebate checks are either in the mail or about to be mailed to homeowners. For most homeowners in the Borough, all of those whose assessed value is at least $5,646, the check should be for $181.

In the Township, those with assessed valuations of $8,427 or more--most everyone--should receive checks for a buck more--$182. Senior citizens, the surviving spouses of senior citizens, or disabled persons will receive an additional $50.

Homeowners whose valuations fall below those minimum levels will receive checks for proportionately less.

If you should take your homestead rebate and decide to splurge at a favorite haunt this weekend, you may not be alone. All told the state is mailing out 1.4 million checks, amounting to $278.5 million. "For a lot of people this is money that just falls out of the sky," says John Baldwin, assistant director of the Division of Taxation. "Of course, it was taxpayers' money to begin with. We're just recycling it."

The scowls of mid April pay for the smiles of early July.

is whether that means houses or lot lines.

Other items on this week's agenda are an agreement with the Institute for Defense Analyses concerning site plan approval, bids for public works equipment, the rebuilding of the recycling shed and a Springdale Golf Club application for a water diversion permit.

On the work session is a proposed ordinance concerning setting forth regulations governing the holding of special events in the Township, the problem of litter caused by unwanted newspapers, burglar alarms and possible appointments.

2 JUVENILES CHARGED

Caught Carrying Pot Plants. Two Randall Road juveniles, 15 and 14, have been charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance, after they were observed carrying potted plants–later identified as marijuana--on Terhune Road.

Ptl. Renn Kaminski and Officer Jack Seeley were on routine patrol Thursday afternoon around 5 at the intersection of Terhune and Thanet Roads when they observed two youths emerge from a wooded area near the Institute for Defense Analysis building. Each was carrying a pot containing green vegetation under each arm.

The officers passed the youths and then turned around in the nearest drive and saw the boys walking on the other side of Terhune. They stopped them and retrieved the four pots from high grass a few feet from where they had first observed them.

The youths denied the plants were theirs. They told the officers they were moving them for a friend whom they refused to identify. The four pots, containing a total of 12 plants, were confiscated by the police as evidence.

The youths were taken to headquarters where they were turned over to juvenile officer Jerry Offredo for further investigation and their parents notified.

SPEEDING ON SNOWDEN

Injury, Summons Follow. Nicholas A. Corcoran, 18, of Levittown, Pa. was injured early Saturday morning while speeding on Snowden Lane.

According to police, Corcoran was traveling at approximately 55 to 60 miles an hour when his car struck a curb, while rounding a curve at the intersection of Franklin Avenue.

Charged by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord with careless driving, Corcoran sustained contusions and abrasions of the head. The front end and undercarriage of his car were damaged.

The mishap took place at 12:27 a.m. Police report that their investigation revealed that Corcoran had allegedly been drinking.

'THE SORCERER' OPENS

At Murray Theatre. Princeton Summer Theatre will open the whimsical light opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, "The Sorcerer," this Thursday in Murray Theatre. Performances are Thursday through Sunday this weekend and next, with a matinee Sunday at 2:30. Evening shows are at 8 all four nights.

"The Sorcerer" was one of Gilbert and Sullivan's first collaborations. Written at a time when the two were still fairly close, "The Sorcerer" was first presented at The Opera Comique in 1877. Soon after, Richard D'Oyly Carte became the sole producer for Gilbert and Sullivan and presented a string of successes by the two men, including "Pirates of Penzance," "H.M.S. Pinafore," "Patience," "Ruddigore" and "The Mikado."

Dale Coye, who is directing "The Sorcerer," performed in the revue "Cox and Box" by Mr. Sullivan and directed "Patience" a year ago. In the cast are two women, Carole Dell-Aquila and Diane Grosjean," who perform with The Blue Hill Troupe in New York and most recently appeared in 'Utopia Limited.' George Oliva, who has been working with Lee Strasberg and members of The Actors Studio in New York and Los Angeles, will return to Princeton to play Alexis Pointdextre. Stephen Sechrist, another Princeton alumnus, will play John Wellington Wells, the Sorcerer.

LOVE IS THEME

Of McCarter Double Bill. Love in various guises will be the subject of Summer Cinema 80's fourth week double-feature presentation at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus, beginning this Wednesday, through Sunday.

Lina Wertmuller's "Love & Anarchy" served notice that the Italian director of such contemporary classics as "Seven Beauties" and "Swept Away..." was a major talent. Dating from 1974, and described as a "Neopolitan gothic romance," the film stars Wertmuller's favorite leading man, Giancarlo Giannini, as Tunin, a shy, awkward anti-fascist in the early 1930's who comes to Rome intent upon assassinating Mussolini.

His mentor and aide in this task is the lovely Salome (Mariangela Melato), the leading lady of an elegant bordello, and herself a dedicated revolutionary. But Tunin falls in love with a young prostitute instead, and the subsequent conflict between "love and anarchy" sparks an explosion of passions which ends in a mixture of anguish and fury.

Summer Cinema's co-feature will be the Woody Allen comedy, "Love and Death," which writer-director Allen himself once called "the film God tried tc stop." Woody plays Boris Grushenko, a reluctant draftee in the Russian Army at the time of the Napoleonic Wars, who is in love with his cousin Sonja (Diane Keaton), who is not, alas, in love with him. Boris emerges from the wars a decorated hero, and the two wind up in an insane and side-splitting plot to assassinate Napoleon--a plot that fizzles, of course.

AFFAIRS OF THE HEART: Diane Daniels as Madame Armfelt explains to her granddaughter Fredrika (Denise Farrington) how the summernight smiles three times, in the Theatre-By-The-Lake production of "A Little Night Music." MUSICAL READY

At Theatre-By-The-Lake. Stephen Sondheim's romantic musical, "A Little Night Music," will be presented Friday and Saturday and again the following weekend by Theatre-by-the-Lake in Geiger-Reeves Hall on the Peddie School campus, Hightstown. Performances will be at 8:30.

Written after Sondheim's success as composer-lyricist of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" and "Company," "A Little Night Music" is based on the film, "Smiles of a Summer Night" by the Swedish director Ingmar Bergman. It takes place in turn-of-the-century Sweden and is a stylish celebration of romantic love, essentially a fairy tale for adults.

The story involves leisure class people whose most pressing problems revolve around their past, present and future affairs of the heart. The best known song from the lyrical score is "Send in the Clowns."

Tom Cardea will direct, and Margaret Swift will be the musical director. Playing the leading role of Fredrik Egerman is Lawrence Bond, who has played leading roles in other area musicals. Terry Kozlowski is cast as the actress Desiree Armfeldt; Diane Daniels will portray her manipulating mother, Mme. Armfeldt; Mark Kramer, a Princeton University graduate student, will be seen as the pompous Count Carl-Magnus Malcolm, and Karen Lenchuk his wife Charlotte.

Other roles will be taken by Steven Barnes as Fredrik Egerman's son Henrik, Annette Farrington as Frederick's wife Ann and

A WEEK OF CONCERTS

At Choir College. Six musical events will be held at Westminster Choir College this week: a solo vocal recital on Wednesday; a multiple vocal recital on Thursday; a humorous cantata on Sunday; a Hymn Sing and flute and piano recital on Monday; and a Summer Sing on the following Tuesday. All are free and no tickets are required.

Randi Marrazzo, mezzo-soprano on the Westminster faculty, will sing Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer," Poulenc's "Benalites," and Irving Fine's "Songs by Samuel Barber" this Wednesday at 8 in Bristol Chapel. Ms. Marrazzo, a finalist in both the American Opera Auditions and the Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions, was recently a semi-finalist in the Walter Naumberg competition. She will be singing with Pennsylvania Opera Company (among others) this season.

On Thursday, at 8 the faculty of Westminster's vocal camp for 200 high school students from across the country will sing a program appropriate for the summer season. Lois Laverty and Judith Nicosia, sopranos, Bruce Kolb, tenor, Robert McIver and Allen Crowell, basses, will participate.

"The True Story of Cinderella," a cantata with words and music by Warren Martin will be given on Sunday, at 8:30 in Bristol Chapel. Written in 1951 with particular individuals in mind, the solo parts of the cantata are humorous take-offs on well-known musical forms: a "strict canon" for the step-sisters; a "siciliano" for the queen; take-offs on marches and folksongs.

On Monday, at 7 in Williamson Hall, Amy Wolfe and Susan Edelman, members of Westminster's Conservatory Division faculty, will present a light summer program for flute and piano. Included will be: works by Marcello, Faure, Boulanger and Martinu. Ms. Edelman. will ploy a group of four Mendelssohn "Songs Without Words."

Following this recital, Erik Routley will conduct a third "Hymn Sing" ot 8 in Bristal Chapel. Entitled "Hymns with Young People in Mind," Dr. Routley has selected a program which promises to be "inspirational, informative and fun."

Mozart's "Coronation Mass" in C will be conducted by James Litton in a "Summer Sing" series on Tuesday at 8 in Bristol Chapel. Both singers and listeners are invited. Soloists will be Jan Gensemer, soprano, Frauke Haasemann, alto; Robert Thick, tenor; and David Perkins, bass.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

For "Over Here!" Theatre-By-The-Lake will hold auditions for the musical "Over Here!" on Monday and Tuesday at 7 in Geiger-Reeves Hall at Peddie School, Hightstown.

"Over Here!" was written in 1974 and starred the Andrews sisters in their return to Broadway. The story takes place in the early 40s, on a train bound for New York from Los Angeles and crowded with civilians and draftees. A singing duo is aboard to entertain and to try for the big time in New York.

The duo is sure that only trios make hit groups, so they search out a third voice, find it in the person of a Nazi spy who tries to get a coded message to the enemy. The attempt is discovered in time and everything ends on a high note.

Directing the production will be Jeffrey R. Holcombe of the Peddie School drama department, with musical direction by Richard Anzuini of the Hightstown High School music department. Choreography will be by DiAnna Mulea. Rehearsals will be Mondays through Fridays between 7 and 11 for a period of four weeks.

Production dates will be Friday and Saturday, August 15 and 16, and the following weekend, August 22 and 23. Theatre-By-The-Lake also needs dancers and people to work backstage.

For further information call Mr. Holcombe at 448-3526 or Frank Towne at 448-0529.

'RUNAWAYS' DUE

"Runaways" is a musical collage that explores the feelings and reasoning of young people who run away from home.

The show is directed and staged by Michael Lawrence, assisted by Bruce Turner. For reservations and in formation call 896-0510.

$350 IS STOLEN

From Nassau St. Store Safe. Three-hundred fifty dollars and a $90 check were stolen last week from a safe at the State Discount drug store, 108 Nassau Street.

A clerk told police that she had noticed someone in the back room where the safe is located and asked the person what he was doing there. He told her that he had been looking for a men's room and left. The clerk then checked the safe and discovered the theft.

The suspect is described as a six-foot black male, wearing a button down shirt and grey trousers. Around his neck were three heavy gold chains.

A UPS package containing a pearl and amethyst necklace valued at $140 was stolen last week from the porch of a Battle Road home. Police said the package had been delivered at 10 in the morning, left by the front door and taken sometime during the next eight hours.

A Westminster Choir College student told police last week that an intruder had entered her unlocked room and removed $70 from her pocketbook, and an 11-year old Princeton youth lost his $35 tennis racquet which he had left in a Nassau Street store. When he returned, it was gone.

A car of a Red Oak Row resident in the Township was entered last week while it was parked in a lot next to Butternut Row.

Stolen, police said, were four and a half gallons of wine valued at $20 and a $24 calculator from a briefcase left on the back seat. The briefcase was not taken. A vent window had been forced open to enter the car.

Two Tires Slashed. In an act of malicious mischief, a Sycamore Road resident told police Monday morning that two tires on his car were cut, while it had been parked overnight in his driveway.

Police found two slash marks in each tire on the driver's side. They were valued at $50 each.

TV, CAMERA STOLEN

From Herrontown Road Home. A $400 color television set and a $500 35mm camera were stolen between 3 and 5 p.m. last week from a Herrontown Road home.

The camera was removed from a bedroom shelf and the television set was taken from a second-floor living room. Police report that the first floor is unoccupied. There were no signs of any forced entry.

Borough police report the entry and ransacking of a Wilson Road home.

A first-floor window was forced open to get inside and some items were taken but police report that they do not know yet all that is missing. The theft was reported at 5:37 Thursday afternoon.

An employee reported the entry of the Princeton University Press building on William Street between 5:30 p.m. Thursday and 1:45 the following afternoon.

A soda machine and a second vending machine were broken into and an unknown amount of money taken from each. Entry was gained through an unlocked window, police said.

BE A GOOD SKATE

Judge Says No. When is a pedestrian not a pedestrian? When he's on roller skates, insists Knawn Friedman of West Windsor.

TO FURTHER THEIR CAREERS: Winners of the Career Development Awards for 1980 are (from left) Cynthia A. Crosson and Tracey L. Stahl, both of Montgomery High School, Michael P. Miller of Princeton High School, Minda Sue Carris of Montgomery High, Mark A. Tamasi of Princeton High and Victoria A. Chianese of Lawrence High.

A computer employee for Princeton University, Mr. Friedman was issued a ticket by Borough police three weeks ago for roller skating on Nassau Street. He should have been on the sidewalk, police said.

In court, however, Mr. Friedman had argued that his offense -- the official charge was "J-skating" -- applied to pedestrians and since he was on roller skates he was not a pedestrian. Judge Philip Carchman gave himself some time to think it over.

Monday night in Borough court, he fined Mr. Friedman $5 and $5 court costs. Although Judge Carchman conceded there are no laws in the state dealing with roller skaters, he cited several court rulings to show that roller skaters are pedestrians.

Even if Mr. Friedman had been skating close to parked cars, there is sufficient danger in skating on Nassau Street during rush hours to warrant a summons; the officer was justified in issuing the ticket, Judge Carchman ruled.

Mr. Friedman said later that he was flabbergasted by the ruling. As for appealing, he would like to, he said, but is hesitant about proceeding because of the cost.

In other traffic charges, Dickson Opong, 1903 Hall, Princeton University was fined $25 for careless driving, and Morris Forer, 113 Dempsey Avenue, $21, for speeding.

Susan W. Simpson, 366 Gallup Road, paid $25 for a stop sign violation. She was involved in an accident at Bayard and Cleveland Lanes and an alleged poor visibility problem at the intersection is to be referred to the traffic safety committee and engineering department.

WINNERS LISTED

Of Career Awards. Winners of this year's Career Development awards have been announced. They are Michael P. Miller and Mark A. Tamasi of Princeton High School, Cynthia A. Crossen, Tracey L. Stahl, Minda Sue Carris, Glenda M. Dorsey and Donna M. Johnson, all of Montgomery High School, and Victoria A. Chianese of Lawrence High School.

Scholarships are given each year to graduating seniors from area high schools who plan to further their education in vocational and technical fields. The winners have always shown great diversity in their areas of interest, and this year is no exception.

Miss Crossen will attend the University of Pennsylvania to study dental hygiene, Miss Stahl will pursue a career in culinary arts and management at Johnson and Wales College in Providence, R.I., and Mr. Miller will be a student at Denver Automotive and Diesel College. Miss Carris plans to study radiology at the Medical College of Virginia, Mr. Tamasi will attend the Lincoln Technical Institute for auto and diesel mechanics, and Miss Chianese will take secretarial courses at Rider College.

Miss Dorsey will enroll at Katharine Gibbs in Montclair and Miss Johnson plans to study fashion merchandising at Mount Ida Junior College.

MAN IS CHARGED

With Harrassment. Ricky Corleone, 27, of 46 Vandeventer Avenue was arrested Thursday night inside the Athenian Restaurant on Witherspoon Street and charged with harrassment.

Police said that Corleone was creating a disturbance when he allegedly used loud and offensive language and began throwing things. Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Monica Sheehan investigated.

STOLEN CAR LOCATED

In Park Place Lot. When Ptl. Michael Taylor noticed the car in the Park Place lot with a number of summonses on the windshield, he reasoned something was amiss.

It was. A check with the National Crime Information Center revealed that the car had been stolen in Franklin Township. Police later returned it to its Kendall Park owner.

MEETING PLANNED

By Sewerage Authority. This Wednesday at 7:30, the Millstone Basin Council will hold a special meeting at the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority building on River Road in Princeton. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the site-specific criteria for hazardous waste treatment-disposal and land emplacement facilities jointly proposed by the Department of Environmental Protection and the Delaware River Basin Commission.

There will also be a discussion of areas in Mercer and Middlesex counties which have been designated as "suitable" for such hazardous waste facilities according to broad area natural resource criteria. Representatives of the respective planning boards of the two counties will be on hand to discuss the likely implications of the siting process for area municipalities.

The meeting is open to the public. For more information, contact Jim Gaffney, Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association at 737-3735.

King George's Revenge.
To the Editor of Town Topics.

Is the Empire striking back?

Is the ghost of King George III taking revenge for the Battle of Princeton on the Princeton Pops Concert, with bad weather forcing an indoor evening two years in a row?

Is the Pops-Picnic-Fireworks still a pretty great way to celebrate our nation's birthday, even if all the components don't come off together out-of-doors as planned?

We think so, and so must the attentive, appreciative audience of all ages who filled Jadwin Gym on Thursday evening to hear the beautiful music of the New Jersey Symphony and Clamma Dale -- as well as the thousands of people who were stormed on Saturday but returned Sunday night to cheer the rocket's red glare and fireworks.

Grateful thanks of the sponsoring groups -- the Princeton Youth Fund, the Princeton YWCA Bates Fund, and the Princeton Chapter of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League -- go to Princeton University for its efficient cooperation; to the Chamber of Commerce for answering hundreds of telephone inquiries; to area banks and savings and loan associations for serving as ticket outlets; to local business firms whose advance ticket purchases provided the working funds we needed; and to our newspapers and radio stations WHWH and WPRB for promoting this community event and for broadcasting the many last-minute changes caused by inclement weather.

We look forward to July 4, 1981, George, and most definitely will reassert our independence.

Unfair Criticism.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mr. Donald Warnock unfairly generalized, in his recent letter to you, complaining about an overcharge by a Princeton taxi driver. He cites one personal incident and identified the taxi company, but felt completely free to speak on behalf of "residents and visitors" in accusing the taxi industry in Princeton of wrongdoing.

I am speaking as an independent owner and take personal offense, because this isolated experience does not apply to the industry in general. There are daily occasions when Princeton taxi drivers render aid, in various ways, to both "residents and visitors." This assistance is always above and beyond the call of duty and clearly exemplifies the integrity of many Princeton taxi drivers. These ethics are applied to everyday business, as well as the community services.

Perhaps Mr. Warnock should have approached the individual in question for explanations, before suggesting "serious investigation" and publicly doubting the character of everyone connected with taxi cabs.

DUMPING STUDIED

By Environmental Reviewers. The Environmental Design Review Board this week decided to postpone until September a final ruling on a case involving the unauthorized dumping of fill on property bordering a small creek near Route 206 in the Township near the Montgomery Township border.

The property is owned by Harold Williams, the proprietor of an auto body repair shop there, who also is seeking possible expansion of his business at that location. The dumping of the fill, which encroached on the stream, occurred when excavation was being done for the new hospital parking garage, according to James J. Britt, representing Mr. Williams.

"As I understand it, the contractor asked where he could dump the fill and someone said that Harold Williams was looking for fill," Mr. Britt told the EDRC. "Mr. Williams did not know that a review was needed," Mr. Britt said. The material dumped consisted mostly of gravel and rock.

Now Mr. Williams has not only the fill but also a lawyer and an engineer, Richard Wizeman of Van Note Harvey, representing him before the EDRC. Mr. Wizeman testified that his analysis of the site indicated that, even under conditions of a 100-year storm, the encroachment on the stream bed would add no more than an inch to the level of the stream. He cited Department of Environmental Protection standards and said, "We're less than half that. Our calculations show that we are not impeding the flow."

The engineer's analysis was challenged generally and technically by committee members. "I don't know where you got your figures," said James C. Sayen, "but I know that brook and there's an awful lot of water flowing through there." George F. Pinder described one part of Mr. Wizeman's analysis as "archaic. I'd like to satisfy myself that it conforms with state of the art engineering."

"If I were back in school working in a lab," Mr. Wizeman replied, "I might do it differently."

Since Mr. Williams would have to submit a site plan for review when and if he moves ahead with his expansion, the EDRC decided to re-consider the stream encroachment issue at that time. The committee requested more engineering calculations and some changes in design.

OPENINGS REMAIN

In Stony Brook Programs. The Watersheds Association's Summer Program, "Understanding Your Environment," is well underway, but there are still a number of spots available for two of the remaining programs.

Beginning July 21, first and second grade students can take part in a five-day program "Bugs 'n' Bunnies." Participants will be given the opportunity to learn and play outside, sharing experiences with friends and counselors while obtaining a better understanding of their natural surroundings.

The program is geared toward the improvement of the youngsters' cooperation, motor, and observational skills, through working by themselves as well as with others. The fee is $20 for members and $35 for non-members.

From July 28-August 1, a program in "Practical Ecology" will be open to interested seventh, eighth and ninth graders. These students will learn how to identify many of the area's common plants and animals. Program Director Bill Anderson will explain how to differentiate between those which are helpful and those which are harmful and he will show how knowledge of this type can be extremely valuable when interpreting the overall character of the land.

The fee for this program is $30 for members and $45 for non-members and there will be an "overnight" also. Reservations are needed for both of these programs. For more information, or to make reservations, call (609) 737-3735.

DOG WINS THE CLOCK

In Choir Raffle. A large friendly "Labra-dale" named Phoebe is now the rightful owner of a fine Herschede grandmother clock from Lavake's.

The winning ticket in a raffle sponsored by Trinity Choir of Men, Boys and Girls gave Phoebe's name and the phone number of the Peter Vielbig family on Newlin Road. The drawing was made by Sam Kind of Lavake Jeweler's, who said: "Our clocks don't usually go to the dogs, but there is no doubt this one did!"

The office of the N.J. Games Commissioner confirmed that while it is unusual for a dog to win a raffle, it is not unlawful, so long as the value of the prize is declared on the dog owners's income tax.

The proceeds from the raffle will go to support the choir's August tour of England, Holland and Germany. The final fund-raising event of a year-long effort by the choir will be a carwash Saturday from 11 to 3 on the Trinity Church circle, 33 Mercer Street.

PDS LAND SALE SET

For Planolog Board Review. In a meeting that may end up being a lull before the storm, the Planning Board this Thursday will consider a proposed minor subdivision of land now owned by the Princeton Day School and a request for a variance to make changes in the facade of the old Bamberger's department store in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The meeting will begin at 8 in the staff center room of the Valley Road School Building. The major subdivision proposed by Gibbs and Hill, scheduled to be heard at this week's meeting, has been rescheduled for Monday's meeting, when the planners also will begin hearing the major subdivision.

PDS is proposing to divide a part of its land holdings into two parts, 75 acres of which it will retain, 88 acres of which it has agreed to sell to a group of investors known as "Inca." The attorney representing the group before the Planning Board, Samuel Lambert, would not divulge the names of the individuals involved. The sale is contingent upon approval by the Planning Board.

The proposal for changes in Bamberger's facade was made by Epstein's, a department store which has made a commitment to take over lease and operation of the store. The group seeks to install a different canopy and sign and to paint the brick structure white. The Environmental Design Review Committee has heard the application and recommended that the planners not approve the white paint job.

"The brick is the one unifying factor in the whole Shopping Center," said Ulrich Frank of the EDRC. "It would be a bad precedent. The next thing you know Sherwin Williams would want to paint their building green and we would have a checkerboard look."

BOOK CLUB SET

At Rocky Hill Library. "Book Trek" is the theme for the Summer Reading Club at the Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill which will run from June 19-August 22. The Dairy Inn, Route 518, Blawenburg, has donated prizes this year. Children who read 5-9 books will get a sundae; 10-14 books, a banana boat; 15-19 books, a brownie delight; 20 or more books, a hamburger deluxe, drink and an ice cream sundae.

Children in the club will have a chance to guess the location of the Lost Planet on the space charts. Gift certificates have been donated from Records Etc., Montgomery Shopping Center, and from C&M Toy Store, Village Shopper, for the winners of this contest. The gift certificates and prizes will be awarded at the Reading Club party on August 25.

To join the Book Trek, children must be able to read on their own and turn in book reports for each book read. This program is free and open to the public. For further information call the library at 924-7073.

Bypass Survey To Begin

The Department of Transportation will conduct origin and destination traffic surveys for approximately two months, beginning this Wednesday in Montgomery and Franklin townships, Princeton, East and West Windsor, Plainsboro and Cranbury, Monroe and South Brunswick townships.

The purpose of the surveys is to acquire traffic data necessary for the Department's study on proposed Route 92 from Route 206 (near the Princeton-Montgomery border) to Route 33.

Survey personnel will be stopping motorists for brief roadside interviews. The interview should only take approximately one and a half minutes to complete. The Department requests the cooperation of motorists during the automatically approved. The deadline for hearing the University case is July 24, though the case is made more complicated than that because of the uncertainty over which ordinance will apply.

Township Housing

The planners also are facing an imminent deadline in the application of Gibbs and Hill for the major subdivision at Cherry Hill Road, known as Princeton Ridge. That application was scheduled for the meeting this Thursday night, but had to be postponed because owners of adjacent properties were not notified within the legal limit. The Princeton Ridge proposal now will share part of the time on Monday night with the University, and will be continued, if necessary, at a work session set for July 28. The deadline in that case is July 29.

The EDRC already has made its recommendation in the Gibbs and Hill proposal: negative. "The University's porposal is nothing like that one," said Mr. Frank. "Princeton Ridge started out with a proposal for 600 units and now it is down to 97." Even at that scale the EDRC still found what it considered to be nine major deficiencies and 62 minor ones.

At this week's meeting, the committee sat through a three-hour presentation and walked away at midnight apparently impressed with the design if not in total agreement with the University's contention that proceeding with a cluster under the new Township ordinance would be financially impossible.

In the University's interpretation of that ordinance, the only possible development would be a traditional subdivision of three- and four-acre lots. It would permit only 88 units, and, according to the environmental study presented at the meeting, would incur "substantially greater environmental effects." The plan would leave no open space and would result in construction on several areas of the property considered environmentally sensitive by the planners.

The plan proposed by the University which complies with the old zoning ordinance has "modest environmental effects, many of which may be mitigated by responsive planning and design," according to the environmental assessment.

That plan calls for 164 units, each on one-acre lots, grouped as closely as possible in pinwheel fashion. The lots would consume about 183 acres of land, roads would take up another 28, and 149 would remain as open space.

The super cluster plan would place houses right on lot lines, with lot sizes measuring perhaps 80 by 120 feet. Some houses would have common walls with other units; others might share garden walls. "The lots would still be big enough for a small swimming pool," said Mr. Walmsley, the landscape architect. "It would be perfectly feasible to get a 2500 square-foot house plus a garage on them. These would not be cheap houses."

Under the super cluster plan, the houses and their lots would occupy only 44 acres, and all the units could be concentrated north of Drakes Corner Road. None of the lots would have to be placed on parts of the parcel that the environmental consultants say have "severe constraints." The super cluster concept even called for roadways to bend and divide to accommodate existing rock outcroppings or large trees.

"Now that's a true cluster," Mr. Sayen said, as the University presented its case.

Mr. Frank, also impressed by the plan, suggested that "There is quite a lot of room for bargaining. Maybe the University could still do a super cluster but with the fewer number of units allowed under the new ordinance."

Eugene McPartland, the University's general manager of planning, plant, and properties, thought otherwise. "If we cluster the units on smaller lots, the units would probably have a lower market value," he said. "It would still be financially feasible if we had 160 units, but if we were only allowed to build 90 units, in our opinion, it would not be economically feasible.

90th Birthday Marked by Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Wertenbaker

Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Wertenbaker observed her 90th birthday last week with the appropriate cake, gifts and good wishes from friends.

But the anniversary that seems to mean more to her is the fact that it is 64 years since she first came to Princeton as the bride of one of the University's most distinguished history professors. During those years as a faculty wife, she has known closely four University presidents, and countless deans and has watched Princeton undergo the social changes wrought by two World Wars.

Mrs. Wertenbaker was born on July 1, 1890, in Lexington, Ky., the daughter of a lawyer who had been a student at Washington and Lee University when General Robert E. Lee was president. She earned her first A.B. degree in liberal arts at the University of Kentucky, but met her husband-to-be while on a visit to the University of Virginia.

Her husband, affectionately known as "The Colonel" to scores of undergraduates, waa born in Charlottesville, Va., and earned his bachelor's and his doctor's degrees at the University of Virignia, where his grandfather, appointed the first librarian by Thomas Jefferson, had served for half a century. Having made his reputation by his doctoral thesis and two succeasive works on colonial Virginia, the young historian was brought to Princeton by Woodrow Wilson as a preceptor in 1910.

Another Era. Married in 1916 on an instructor's annual salary of $1,800, the Wertenbakers found a home at 111 FitzRandolph Road in one of the houses built by Moses Taylor Pyne as the University's first faculty housing. Mrs. Wertenbaker remembers that the house had gas lighting, a coal burning stove and furnace and no storm windows or insulation. But the rooms were commodious, and there were apple trees and hedges.

Luncheon in Style. She tells of being invited to luncheon by the Pynes and of being fetched for the drive "to the country" to Drumthwacket in the carriage sent by their host. They rode in "comfortable grandeur" behind the pair of horses with coachman and footman.

After luncheon they would be taken to see the greenhouses and dairy and were sent home with butter and cream and hot-house grapes and a Boston fern. After 64 years of being taken indoors in the fall and put out in the spring and tended to by friends during absences abroad on teaching assignments, the Boston Fern from Drumthwacket is still one of Mrs. Wertenbaker's prize possessions.

She has warm words of praise for Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton from 1912 to 1932, and his wife, who treated faculty members as individuals, she says. When Mrs. Hibben invited the newly-weds to dinner with older Princeton residents, the brides usually wore their wedding gowns, she recalls.

Mrs. Hibben brought layette articles to expectant mothers, visited faculty wives recuperating from operations in New York hospitals and when dining at a faculty home, turned a simple meal into an occasion.

But life did not only consist of social activities. World War I was underway when Mrs. Wertenbaker came to Princeton, and she quickly became involved in the Committee to Aid the French Wounded and did Red Crosa work on the third floor of Prospect with Mrs. Hibben and in Mrs. Gertrude Winan's home at the head of Bayard Lane. She joined the Village Improvement Society and as a newcomer was assigned streets and vacant lots in the vicinity of Witherspoon Street.

Volunteer Work. On the campus she was active in the first 30 years of the University League and the Faculty Bed Fund, which she later administered for 12 years. She served on the Hospital Aid Committee and was president of the Tuberculosis League of Princeton and waa twice president of the Present Day Club. She worked hard on behalf of the English Speaking Union for some 20 years.

And still she found time to raise a son, Thomas Jefferson Wertenbaker IV, and to proof read almost all her husband's books. Before and after his retirement in 1947, Prof. Wertenbaker received eight appointments to lectureships at colleges in this country and three abroad, including the Harmsworth Professorship in American history at Oxford and visiting professor at the University of Gottingen.

Alerted that she would have to preside at ladies' teas as wife of the "professor aus America," she undertook an intensive study of German from Mrs. Donald C. Stuart, a neighbor and fellow faculty wife. The knowledge of German stood her in good stead in 1950 when Prof. Wertenbaker spent a year at the University of Munich. Dismayed by the sight of so many who were cold and hungry and homeless, she taught English in a center established by Philadelphia Quakers.

Earlier in World War II, Mrs. Wertenbaker had devoted her considerable energies to the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies and to British War Relief, for which her husband personally wrapped and sent off hundreds of parcels. She also helped schedule airplane spotters at the Civilian Defense Headquarters in Borough Hall when it was in Thompson Hall.

After these sessions, she knew she was safe walking home at night because her friends, the Rev. Arthur Kinsolving of Trinity Church and Dr. William Tucker of Second Church had been drafted into duty on the police force and would guide her along the way.

Chairman of Campus Center. Mrs. Wertenbaker's main effort during World War II was at the Campus Center set up in Murray-Dodge for the men in mufti who had come to Princeton University in a variety of training programs that brought some 20,000 soldier-students to the campus between 1942 and 1945. She was chairman of a committee of 300 faculty wives and other women drawn from the community who provided recreation and relaxation for the servicemen seven days a week and a big party at Christmas.

One of the most dramatic times of her life was crossing the Atlantic in a convoy in 1945, one of four women aboard, to try to join her husband at Oxford. Despite wartime restrictions surrounding the city itself and the hallowed traditions of the all-male university, she spent the night at The Queens College as Queen Phillipa had done 600 years before her.

Mrs. Wertenbaker is an erect and dignified woman who receives visitors at tea in a delicately sprigged dress with a bit of lace at her throat and freshly whitened shoes. She would have liked to have been "at home" on the day of her 90th birthday to all the many people who have befriended her over the years -- from store merchants to First Aid and Rescue Squad members to policemen.

But she suffered a fall several weeks ago while carrying a Sally Lunn cake to a bridge gathering, and having undergone an operation to repair a badly damaged knee, knew she needed all her strength to recover. However, she was especially cheered by a bouquet of red carnations, white daisies and bachelor's buttons sent to her by "Nassau Hall." After all, she has been a faculty wife for 64 years.

LET'S TALK ABOUT
WOOLY APHIDS
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

WOODWINDS has been receiving many calls of late from concerned homeowners about colony white puffs on Hemlocks and other fir trees. This is Wooly Aphid, a pest introduced into the U.S. from Asia around the turn of the century. From that time, it has spread throughout the country, killing billions of feet of the finest fir timber on the continent.

The population of this insect in the U.S. consists entirely of females, purplish-black in color, but which secrete ribbons of white wax which cover it's 1 mm long body, giving it its wooly white appearance. The adult fixes herself to the host plant by means of her long, suckling mouthpart (several times longer than her body), and remains in that spot throughout her lifetime. When eggs hatch, the crawling stage is so small that it can be windblown for great distances, thereby spreading the destruction from one plant to another.

The damage done to the tree is most noticeable at the ends of twigs, often, swelling appears, caused by a substance injected into the twig by the insect. When the infestation is severe, the twigs appear to be covered by the white wool of the aphids. New growth virtually ceases.

Treatment of this insect consists of a spray in early September, using a combination of carbaryl / diazinon / spreader-sticker. As always, trees which have suffered any heavy insect infestation should be deep-root fed as soon as possible, to counteract the destruction caused.

WOODWINDS is always happy to answer any question you may have concerning your valuable trees and shrubs. Please call us at 924-3500.

The most amazing home run hitting by one player ever seen in a professional baseball game was in the Texas League in 1902 when Jay Clarke of Corsicana hit 8 HOMERS IN 9 INNINGS ... Nobody else has come close to that record in pro baseball history ... Oddly enough, when Clarke got to the majors, he hit only 6 homers in 9 YEARS.

I bet you didn't know ... that many health insurance plans including Blue Cross-Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

Incredibly, a big league baseball pitcher once won 20 games TWICE in one season ... Jack Chesbro of the 1904 Yankees won 20 games by July and then won 2t more before the end of the season for a total of 41 victories ... Chesbro won 41 and lost 12 that year.

What's the all-time record for a big league baseball team coming from farthest behind to win a game? ... On June 15, 1925, the Indians led the A's 15-3 going into the 7th ... Many of the fans had left the park, but the A's scored 14 runs in the last 2 innings to win 17-15 in the biggest rally in major league history.

POST 76 NINE SPLITS

Hamilton Here Thursday. The two games couldn't have been more dissimilar.

Thursday's 1-0, extra-inning shading by Trenton contrasted with a 14-11 upset slugfest two days earlier over Bordentown, one of the Mercer County American Legion League leaders. More encouraging than the split was the caliber of the play by Post 76; it was up several notches over the previous weeks.

"There's no question that we cut down on the errors–and that's a good sign," said Princeton coach Pete Millington. "I thought the kids played well in each game. We went from a lot of hitting to a real tough loss."

Post 76 (4-11-1) will try to keep its play on a high level this week at the expense of Hamilton Post 31 which it will oppose, following the All-Star game break, Thursday at 5:45 at Princeton University's Clarke Field.

In a pair of road games during the weekend, Princeton will be at Lawrence Saturday and Ewing on Sunday.

Pitchers' Duel. Trenton's Joe Beczo and Princeton's Judd Petrone were hooked up in a classic pitchers' duel as Petrone had a no-hitter going for the first six innings, winding up with a two-hitter. Beczo was touched for five hits–two by outfielder John Kandell--but retired 13 on strikes.

Princeton had one scoring opportunity in the second. With runners on second and third and one down, an attempted squeeze play misfired for the second out and Trenton was able to get out of the inning.

At the end of regulation play, neither team had scored. Trenton opened the bottom of the ninth with a leadoff double. The next batter laid down a bunt on the third base side of the mound which Petrone bobbled momentarily. "I think he had the guy on the throw to first," said Millington, but the umpire ruled that first baseman Frank Whittaker's foot was off the bag.

With runners on second and third, Millington signaled for Petrone to walk Trenton's cleanup batter to fill the bases. However, the traditional strategy backfired when Petrone then couldn't find the plate and walked in the winning run.

Pitching was not a factor in the Bordentown contest. "Both teams just hit the heck out of the ball," said Millington. Princeton pounded out 16 hits, Bordentown, 10.

Princeton scored in every inning. It took a 9-1 lead after three when it plated four runs in both second and third inning. Petrone and Ron Kane each had three hits, Petrone contributing a triple.

Chipping in with two hits each were teammates Dan Miller, John Kandell, Tom Scibetta and designated hitter Scott Webber. John Majarwitz got the win.

CONTE'S BAR 10-0

In Women's Softball League. Pounding out 30 hits and scoring in every inning but one, Conte's Bar routed winless Rusty Scupper, 27-4, last week to keep its record perfect at 10-0 and its first-place position in the Women's Slow Pitch League.

Dee Pearce, who homered and doubled, and Harriet each had five hits for Conte's, while Cathy Arcaro and Cynthia Lucullo were both 4-for-5 at the plate. Conte's big inning was the fifth when it sent 11 runs across.

Winning pitcher Arcaro limited the Scupper to seven hits, including two each by Nancy Trani, Christina Anderson and Dana Miller.

Timely hitting and a good defense which caused nine runners to be stranded, led Koffee Kup to its eighth victory, an 11-4 decision over Andy's Tavern. Hester Phox got the win.

Kup took a 5-0 lead in the third when it scored four runs on a triple by Spring Taylor and hits by Judi Grisham (2-for-3, and Barbara Rice (3-for-4). Taylor ended with three hits in three at bats, while Catherine Rice had two hits in three appearances, including a triple, and scored three runs.

Andy's was led by Carol Armiger, who had three hits and scored twice, and by Marie Wszolek, Laurie Bruschi (2 hits each), Robin Bauer (2 RBIs) and Cindy Henderson, who excelled defensively and was involved in 10 plays.

Mike's Tavern combined the pitching of Lorraine Duthie and Clare Baxter, who allowed seven hits, and a 23-hit attack to overpower the Diplomats, 25-5. The victors led, 14-0, after three.

Leading hitters for Mike's were Baxter (4-for-4, including a triple), Debbie Breithaupt (3-for-5 with a home run and double). Debbie Ficarro (double and triple), Maureen Merrigan, who homered, and Elizabeth Zingg and Kim Pope, who each went 3-for-5. Lynn Farmer had two hits for the losers.

Yamasaki Swim Club scored six runs in the first inning and by game's end had rapped 23 hits for an easy 18-6 victory over Ivy Inn. The victory behind winning pitcher Ree Smurthwaite left Yamasaki with a 6-4 record and in fourth place in the eight-team league.

Ann Knudsen led the hitting barrage for Yamasaki with a home run, triple and double in going 4-for-4. Maureen Nosal, Sue Anderson and Derry Light each added three hits apiece while Linus McHugh and Smurthwaite had four-baggers.

For Ivy, Laura Decker and Mary Ellen Hirst each connected for three hits, Decker counting a triple among her's.

In games this Wednesday evening at Community Park (6:15) Conte's vs. Ivy, Koffee Kup vs. Rusty Scupper, Mike's vs. Andy's and Yamasaki vs. Diplomats.

The standings with four games to go:

	W	L	Pct
Conte's	10	0	1.000
Koffee Kup	8	2	.800
Mike's	7	3	.700
Yamasaki	6	4	.600

UNBELIEVABLE!

Wild Ending Decides All-Star Game. The annual American Legion All-Star game Monday night in Trenton's Moody Park had one of those improbable, impossible, pulsating endings that helps to explain why baseball has never lost its appeal.

The old axiom that the game is never over until the last out was underlined when the City squad scored seven runs in the last inning with two out to stun the Country team, 9-8. Four members of the Princeton Post 76 team, one of the five "country teams" from which the Country all-stars were John Kandell started in right field and was later replaced by teammate Tom Scibetta. Scott Webber and Andy Kulinski were two of seven Country pitchers used during the three-hour, 15-minute contest.

For eight innings that seven-man mound corps had held the favored City team to a pair of singles and two unearned runs. The Country squad, meanwhile, had reached seven City pitchers for 11 hits and eight runs, plating a pair in the third, sixth and ninth innings.

Although Stan Sandford of West Trenton Post 314, who came on to pitch the last inning and protect Country's comfortable 8-2 lead, walked the first two batters he faced, he seemed out of trouble when he fanned Dave Dominici and got Gary Breza to sky out.

Then the improbable began. A single and another walk forced in one run. Chuck Krepp, who replaced Sandford, yielded a run-scoring single and another infield hit. Suddenly the score was 8-5.

Sam Rinaldi, who was later voted the game's MVP, followed with a two-run single. The ball kicked off centerfielder Ken Klek, allowing another runner to score and tie the game at 8.

But the Country team was not yet finished throwing the game away. When Klek's relay to third was wild for a double error, Rinaldi dashed home with the winning run.

GOLD, NAVY WIN

In Summer Lacrosse. In the most recent games in the Princeton Summer Lacrosse League, Gold edged Orange, 5-4, and Navy defeated Green, 8-3.

Rob Littell and Bryce Chase Jr. each scored a pair of goals for Gold, while Jay Budd added a single goal and two assists. Ian Broadwater tallied three times for Orange, and Grayson Ferrante added the fourth goal.

Kip Sparrow with four goals accounted for half of Navy's winning score over Green. Ron Campbell added three more goals and an assist and Tom Gates a single goal for the victors. Matt Adriance, Hal Kokes and Pete Dunne each scored for the losers.

Earlier, Red defeated Blue, 10-3, and Orange topped Green, 8-4. For Red, David Barnes and David Rosenbloom each scored three times. Allen Fitzpatrick and Bill Cobb each had a pair of goals, Fitzpatrick adding an assist for Red which led, 4-1, at the half. Hawley Waterman, Chris Cahill and Bob Flippin scored for Blue.

Phillip Ferrante and Ian Broadwater combined for six goals (three each) to lead Orange to its win. Grayson Ferrante and F. E. Lamason also scored for the victors. Brian Bremen's two goals paced the losers, who also received single scores from Peter Dunne and Fred Bull.

Still earlier, Gold defeated Blue, 8-3, and Red edged Navy, 7-6, when it outscored the loseres 4-1 in the final period.

Littell was the big gun in Gold's win with three goals and as assist. Jay Budd had two goals and two assists, Ken Murphy one goal, one assist, and Greg Hirsch and Bryce Chase, one goal apiece. Bob Flippin (two goals) and Nick Godfrey accounted for Blue's scoring.

Navy's Kip Sparrow beat the Red goalie four times, Bobby Campbell scored twice and Ronnie Campbell had three assists but their efforts fell one goal short to the fast-closing team.

Allen Fitzpatrick and Alex Wert each had two goals and an assist for Red, Dave Barnes had a goal and an assist and Dave Lewis and David Rosenbloom single tallies. Barnes, Wert, Fitzpatrick and Rosenbloom each scored for Red in the decisive final period.

ELKS STILL ON TOP

In Little League. Scott Yates and Doug Davis shared the pitching and both drove in three runs aa Elks defeated Engine No. 3, 11-8, last week, to remain in first place in the Princeton Youth Baseball Assoclation Little League.

Torbin Larsen, Brett Hoebel and Peter Guthrie alao hit safely for Elka. Mlchael Stefanchik hit a two-run homer for the losers. He received offensive support from teammates Chris Tetzelli and Dan Caskey.

Century 21's Barry Phox fanned 11 but he wasn't able to contain Matt Williams of Italian-American who had three hits and Vito Armenti and Bruce Goodman who stroked two hits apiece. I-A edged Century, 6-5.

Winning pitcher John Berry also had the game-winning hit. Michael Riddick and Fiona Little led Century 21 at the plate.

In other games, Post 76 trounced Roma Eterna, 19-2, and Engine No. 1 defeated the Eagles, 7-4.

Winning Post 76 pitcher Kirk Williams struck out 11 and received offensive support from Robby Mosley, Noah Falk and Scott Fisher. Marvin Trotman and Jack Zahner scored for Roma.

No. 1's pitcher Freddy Young struck out the first eight Eagle Batters he faced. Billy Scott and Charlie Reves helped preserve his win by slamming three hits each. John Geller and Darrin Elliot led the Eagle offense.

PRINCETON SKIER 2D

In National Grass Championships. Anne Knudson, 24 Linden Lane, one of the country's top women alpine skiers, has finished second overall among the women in the U.S. Grass Ski National Championships held during the weekend at Bryce Mountain, Va.

Knudson, owner of the Princeton Nautilus Fitness Center which will open soon in the Princeton Shopping Center, won the slalom and took second in both the downhill and giant slalom. She finished .8 of a second behind winner Kelley Martin of Virginia in the overall standings.

Some 65 men and women competed in the grass event in which metal skis about 2½ feet long with a caterpillar-type tred replace the usual snow ski. They make a loud, clicking noise and speeds of 45 miles an hour are reached on the downhill, Knudson said. She was the only resident of New Jersey to compete.

WANNA DO IT YOURSELF? Painting the outside of your house by an amateur painter can look very nice, but gets very costly to redo if that new paint is flaking off in a short time, due to poor preparation, moisture problem or the use of the wrong type of paint. Before you start, consult Julius H. Gross, Princeton, with 25 years professional painting experience to analyze the surface, moisture testing, recommending proper surface preparation and type of primers and finish paint to be used. Consultation fee $25 -- in most cases. Call Julius H. Gross at 609-924-1474 for an appointment on your job.

PHS '75 Graduate in Peace Corps in Philippines Describes 'Rock-Bottom' Poverty She Encounters among Families There

"For my one and one-half years as a Peace Corps volunteer here in a Philippine village, I've lived alongside rock-bottom poverty. I feel strongly that I want to DO SOMETHING to help."

Katherine Treiman, Princeton High School class of '75, has indeed been doing something to help, and now she is turning to her friends in Princeton and asking them for help, too.

In a letter to her parents, Sam and Joanne Treiman of 60 McCosh Circle, Katherine writes with quiet irony about "the land of swaying coconut palms, white sand beaches and sweet mangoes."

The Barrio (neighborhood) Sto. Rosario, a part of the town of Pandan, south of Manila, is the place where Katherine is concentrating her work. She explains that although fishing, coconut and rice farming are the main sources of income for residents of Pandan, Sto. Rosario suffers because it is not on the seacoast and has very little land for either rice or coconuts. It is a densely populated community, with families who have as many as 16 children, and family planning is "a barely accepted idea."

Most of the people live by planting vegetables and fruits in illegal "slash-and-burn" agriculture in the mountains. The women weave sleeping mats from a local leaf. One mother can make two mats a week, worth about 16 pesos. But rice for a family of four also costs 16 pesos a week.

"What about fish, gas and other needs?" Katerine writes.

She estimates that 95 percent of the children under six are malnourished. Most families have had at least one child who died before reaching six. They die of tuberculosis, various kinds of gastro-intestinal worms or dysentery.

Many houses have no toilets. The combination of poor nutrition, poor sanitation, and almost no vaccination, makes the population, especially the children, very vulnerable.

"With such a multitude of problems, I've felt frustrated with work here," Katherine continues.

Her title, "Community Organizer," means she is assigned to organize projects that will help combat malnutrition, and she has done a variety of things -- getting toilets built and organizing classes for adults on nutrition, sanitation and health care.

"It's hard to say if these have had any impact. It's a long, long road."

Politics Intervenes. One of the projects she believes most effective is now threatened. It is a Day Care Center where pre-school children receive a morning and afternoon snack.

But in recent mayoralty elections, the people of Sto. Rosario opposed the man who was victorious, and now that he is elected, he has announced that he will close the Day Care Center and move it to another Barrio.

"The closing of this center would be an enormous loss to the people here," Katherine writes.

The Center serves 60 children between three and six years of age -- the age regarded as most susceptible to illness and malnutrition. Of the 60, Ms. Treiman estimates that two-thirds are in the most severe category of malnutrition.

Food is contributed by the Catholic Relief Services (rolled oats, milk, corn soy milk, corn soy flour). Other agencies give sardines, cocoa, beans, dried fish, oil and rice. Families of the pupils bring fresh vegetables. Mothers cook the snack, usually a rice porridge with fish and vegetables added.

So the children are fed, and the mothers learn how to prepare nutritious meals. Each child is weighed every month.

The Center is also a school, where children learn simple writing and arithmetic.

To keep the Center open, Katherine says, she needs enough money to pay the salary of the teacher -- 360 pesos, or about $48, a month, $576 a year.

"Dollars go a long way here," she writes. "I know that most of you probably give some contribution to charities, probably without knowing exactly how the money will be spent.

Princeton Can Help. "My hope is that you could decide to give instead to this particular project, which I can assure you is very effective. Most useful would be a commitment, say for five years, to give a certain amount every year."

The teacher and the president of the Parent-Teacher Association (yes, the Barrio Sto. Rosario has a PTA) will provide progress reports. Katherine herself, hoping for a career in international relief work, will train the next Peace Corps workers who come along after her own two-year term is ended.

Eleven officers and workers in the Day Care Center, signed a letter attached to Katherine's plea:

"We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks for the splendid job your Peace Corps Volunteer has rendered here in our place," they write. "She's active, thoughtful and helpful. We are anticipating that through her effort, Sto. Rosario will be granted the help we are asking for. Again thanks a lot and good luck to you. Gratefully yours . . ."

Checks may be made out to Katherine Treiman and sent to her at this address: Peace Corps Volunteer, U.S. Peace Corps, P.O. Box 7013, MIA Philippines, 3120.
